

We're Writing to Say - An Anthology of Young Voices

We're Writing To Say is an anthology of student writing examining the experiences of young people in 2020.

Over two, 2-hour workshops led by Story Factory, students will investigate the challenges, the unexpected joys, the boredom, worries and hopes of these unusual times.

Young people will share what is important to them, what they know about the world and how they would like to shape the world we live in.

Thursdays October 1 and 8, 10 am-12pm
